

Comment From Columbia

By Henry W. Patterson.

New York, March 3. — Out in the middle-west where the opposition to the lend-lease bill is strongest, where the rest of the world seems so far away, and where the draft is accepted only with much misgiving, military authority have banned use of that odious word "draftee." It is to be "selectee" from now on.

Business As Usual.

Amid the hoopla of colossal defence spending and covert hopes of another great war boom, this country has forgotten what they are headed for in the way of personal responsibility for meeting the bills. American attention is still fixed on the hoopla.

It will be interesting to see how 130,000,000 Americans who love their standard of living, their pleasures, and their comforts, react when they wake up to the fact that consumer economy has become war economy. Will they be willing to sacrifice and pay? Or will there be a hue and cry for relief through negotiated peace or other means, and a return to the easy consumer economy?

Thus far all individual sacrifice has amounted to is perhaps a little knitting for the Bundles for Britain organization. But that's just an overgrown Ladies Aid Society. And the crisis is coming between the war economy and the consumer economy. If both the Government and the people keep spending, America will eventually collapse financially.

Higher Economics.

The Administration is making desperate efforts to avoid inflation. Baby bonds will be placed on the market very soon. The Government plans to get the people to lend them all sorts of money so they can spend it. In turning money over to the government, the public will greatly weaken its potential buying power. The government wants to do all the spending, and not have to compete against its individual citizens. In simplest terms, they want to be able to buy trucks and guns with the money that ordinarily the little people would put into cars!

You can't snitch John Jones' savings from him without first satisfying him that it's in a good, honest cause. So within a couple of weeks the Administration will turn on the ballyhoo. How the public will take this pulling in of the belt is one big question mark. Yet this is one subject on which there is national unanimity—unanimity of uncertainty. There will be new taxes, especially in the income field. The trick here is to trim the goose and pluck the feathers with the least amount of squeaking. It will tax the Administration's skill.

My guess is that, in spite of the screeches which will inevitably come when the facts smile the American public fair in the face, the burdens will be shouldered and the sacrifices made. This because peace now would mean terrific dislocation. There would be a doubling of confusion because this country has started toward a war economy and peace would mean a forced retreat to consumer economy without ever attaining stability in the first. Temporarily the situation would be worse than any war.

PSYCHOLOGISTS HEAR DR. BOIS IN JOINT MEET

Subject to Be 'Consumer and Opinion Research'

MEETING TOMORROW

Psychological Society and Commerce Men Hold Conjoint Lecture

Tomorrow evening at eight o'clock in the Union Grillroom, Dr. J. S. A. Bois of the Psychological Institute will address the Psychological Society, in joint meeting with the Commercial Undergraduate Society, on the subject "Consumer and Opinion Research."

This meeting is being held in collaboration with the Commerce students because of the special interest of the topic to them. Consumer Research is a refined technique applied in commercial marketing, a field in which Dr. Bois has had considerable experience and for which his training has well qualified him.

Co-founder of Institute

Having obtained his Master's and Doctor's degrees at McGill in psychology, Dr. Bois, in 1938, founded in Montreal, with Dr. E. C. Webster, the Psychological Institute, which is the first and only professional body of applied psychologists in Canada. It has some twelve associate members all over Canada, including Dr. W. D. Tait, Dr. C. E. Kellogg, and Dr. N. W. Morton of McGill University. The Institute (Continued on Page Four)

DRIVE BEGINS FOR GREEK MEDICAL AID

Committee Appointed to Participate in Campaign Inaugurated by Columbia

The McGill Students' Council, having received an invitation from Columbia University to participate in a campaign for funds to provide medical relief for Greece, have appointed Jimmy Panos as Chairman of the McGill drive. The fund to be raised from contributions by McGill students has tentatively been called the "Wounded Evzone's Fund," and the plan has received the endorsement of Principal F. Cyril James.

The committee of Greek students at McGill who will participate in the drive includes the following: Mary Laphkas, Secretary; Gus Spiliotopoulos, Treasurer; Poppy Anastas, George Boukydes, Andrew Esfakis, Arthur Kalfas, Pete Lempeles, and Julius Metrakos.

It is expected by the campaign committee that most of the major Canadian Universities will take part in the plan, and an invitation has been extended to them to hold a Greek Day on March 14th.

All those wishing to contribute should make their checks payable to the McGill Greek Medical Relief Campaign, and send them to 1410 Stanley Street, Room 907.

Conference to Hear Montreal Physicians

The Canadian Association of Medical Students and Internes will hold its national conference on March 14, 15, and 16, when medical students and internes from throughout Canada will convene at McGill.

Delegates will be welcomed by Dr. J. C. Simpson, dean of medicine here. The president of the body is Donald Lloyd-Smith, final year medical student.

The conference this year will centre about some of the problems now facing entrants into the medical profession, including problems arising from military training and service.

Subjects to be discussed are Canada's Syphilis problem, Nutrition Problem, and the inadequate medical care in the Dominion. Many of Montreal's prominent medical authorities are scheduled to address the body.

POETRY GROUPS HOLD CONTEST

Professionals and Amateurs Are Eligible for Entry

Canadian Poetry Night Will Take Place at Heliconian Club

The adjudication, reading, and presentation of prizes for the Dominion-wide Poetry Contest will occur at the fourth Annual Canadian Poetry Night to be held this year at the Heliconian Club in Toronto on March 28. It will be under the joint auspices of the Poetry Groups of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Authors' Association and the Pen Guild. Writers, both professional and non-professional, throughout Canada are eligible for the contest.

The poems will be judged for literary and imaginative quality. They must not be less than twelve (12) lines and not more than one hundred (100) lines in length, and may be in any metre or form, or on any subject whatever. All poems must be written in English. Manuscripts shall be typewritten on one side of the paper only, and double spaced. Each poem must be signed with the writer's pseudonym, printed or typewritten. The name and address of the writer shall be enclosed in a separate sealed envelope, on the outside of (Continued on Page Four)

PSYCHOLOGISTS MEET

Convene Tonight in Strathcona Hall to Hear Address

All students who are interested in Psychology are invited to attend the meeting tonight at 7.30 p.m. in Strathcona Hall of a group of students of the Department of Psychology. At this meeting Mrs. T. B. Hughes of the Y.W.C.A. will deliver a talk on "Personal Relations in the Home," and she will elaborate on the psychological aspects of this sociological theme.

MAC CIRCLE TO HOLD MUSICAL

Doris Kent and Natalie Rosenthal to Give Piano Solos

A Musicales will be featured by the Macabean Circle tomorrow evening when it meets at 4375 Oxford avenue. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8.15. Student participation is to be included in the program, and Doris Kent and Natalie Rosenthal will give piano solos. Artists are also to be featured in violin solos, and a short recorded interlude will complete the program. There will be no admission charge, and refreshments will be served.

A special meeting will also be held on Monday at 5 o'clock in the Union Ballroom to elect a new executive. Nominations will be from the floor, and elections will take place immediately after.

Sunday, March 23, has been announced as the date of the Circle's closing banquet, and tickets will go on sale later in the week. Three more meetings will be held before the end of the season. (Continued on Page Four)

Thankless Position of Exchange Editor Has Its Compensations

By E. G.

You are running to catch an early lecture when you're stopped by a young lady who, speaking with a patronizing and exaggeratedly ironic air, says: "Tut, tut, young man, a trifle risque today, don't you think?" You grunt out a non-committal "Is that so?" and run on.

Before you enter the class-room, someone else nabs you—this time a grumbling male with this remark, "Whatsamatter, slipping?" They've got no punch today! You reply, "I can't please everybody," or "Maybe you just haven't got a subtle wit" and duck into the lecture.

These early morning critics refer to the jokes appearing in the Daily, which, as exchange editor, it is your task to put in. The exchange editor is charged with making sure that there are no blank spaces in any given issue of the Daily. To do this he sends the printer jokes, humorous articles, and miscellaneous material culled from the collegiate press at large, and bearing an unmistakable credit line, lest the harassed exchange editor be branded a plagiarist, than which there can be no uglier epithet to a member of the Fourth Estate, unless it be traitor, murderer or wifebeater (this last, of course,

Sale of Forge Will Commence Tomorrow

The Forge, McGill's only literary magazine, will make its appearance tomorrow morning. The magazine will be on sale throughout the campus, and may be bought for 25 cents.

An experimental literary attempt consisting of part prose and part poetry will be one of the features of the magazine in its new revised form. An article on Aldous Huxley will also be featured in addition to a story on French-Canadian Life and a Child Psychology study.

A complete revision of the magazine's style has taken place this year, cover, colour and layout all having been changed. It will contain nine prose selections and six poetry, in addition to six linecuts which illustrates the stories.

Dormitory to Don Mourning For Blackout

R.V.C. Practices Air Raid Precautions

By M.M.

Tonight at 6.30 the Royal Victoria College blackout will go into force. Every night till next Wednesday every window will be darkened.

Jean Mitchell, the head of the Blackout Committee, which is a section of the Specialized War Training Program, has been in a blackout before. She has announced that if each girl will be responsible for her own room, the committee will look after any other rooms which cannot be closed for the week. The sitting room and kitchenettes and also the upper gym will be closed.

It is hoped that the lower gym may be used as an air raid shelter—if there should be an "alarm" next week. The reading room, the drawing room and the common room may be used if the blinds and curtains are pulled, and no floor lights near the windows may be used. Corridor lights will not be turned on at all, and bathroom lights must be used only when absolutely necessary. All lights in a room must be turned off immediately the room is unoccupied.

Committee in Charge

The Committee is composed of Kitty Haverfield, Wilma Veit, Fay Thomson, Phoebe Fitz, Mabel Hamilton and Jean Clark. These co-eds, and many others who want to help, will this afternoon start blacking out corridor, library and basement windows. Blackout material (Continued on Page Four)

SAVINGS DRIVE ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETED

Pledge Cards Are Now Being Distributed

STAMPS NOW ON SALE

Students Are Urged to Buy War Savings Certificates Regularly

"McGill's role in the present War Savings Campaign is an important one," stated George C. McDonald, chairman of the McGill War Savings Committee, in an interview last night. "Arrangements have been completed," he continued, "whereby all students in the University will be given the opportunity of buying stamps and certificates regularly."

"Pledge cards are now being distributed in order to make sure that everyone may have the chance to make purchases regularly." At present committees have been organized in each faculty under Glen Cowan for the distribution of pledge cards in the various faculties. Stamps may be purchased at any one of the following places: the Arts, Medical, Engineering, and Biological buildings, the Union Tuckshop, the Pit, and the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium. They may also be purchased at Douglas Hall and at any one of the fraternities.

Women Can Help

"Women are playing an important part in this struggle," continued McDonald, "and though they are unable to take part in the actual fighting they can help by saving regularly; by making the campaign one long Sadie Hawkins Week and save money to help the boys 'over there.'"

Pledges Beneficial

"This pledge system is particularly beneficial to students," stated McDonald, "since it affords an easy means of buying stamps and ensuring their purchase regularly. The regular purchase of stamps is essential to the success of this campaign." These pledge cards are to be used as follows: Each person who pledges himself signs a statement promising to buy stamps regularly and to buy a certificate on a specified date. These pledge cards should then be returned to the McGill War Savings Committee either directly through the class representatives or at the Union Tuckshop.

Students may buy a certificate every six months or every week, and sixteen stamps on a war savings folder represent one certificate.

JACKSON TO DELIVER SERIES OF LECTURES

A series of lectures on "The Economic Aftermath of War" will be given by Mr. Gilbert Jackson, former Acting Director of the School of Commerce at McGill. The series of three to be held in Moyse Hall will be open to the public.

The first lecture of the series will be held on Monday, March 10, at 8.30 p.m. on the topic of "Post War Physical Rebuilding of Western Europe." The topic of the second lecture will be "The Post War Adjustments of Costs and Prices in Canada." The concluding speech will be "The Post War Outlook for Canada" on Friday, March 14.

A cordial invitation to attend this series is extended to all those students interested in this subject.

PLATFORMS

All platforms and photographs for nominees in the forthcoming elections have not yet been handed in. It is essential that these be turned in TODAY. Otherwise it may be necessary to omit some of the platforms. They should be left in a sealed envelope addressed to the "Elections Editor," McGill Daily, in the Tuck Shop of the McGill Union.

BRIDGE CLUB TO MEET TONIGHT

Winning Teams of Last Meeting to Receive Prizes

Eight Teams for Play-offs to Be Determined by Tonight's Score

The Bi-monthly meeting of the McGill Duplicate Bridge Club is being held tonight at 7.45 p.m. in the Union Reading Room. The secretary of the club advises all prize-winners at previous meetings to attend this meeting in order to get their prizes. Any left over at the end of this session will automatically revert to the club.

The two teams of Jeffrey-Brownrigg and Decelles-Tebbutt, winners in the last meeting, will receive their prizes. A member of the executive states that there will be very important announcements made at the end of the meeting in all probability, concerning the play-offs. At present there are twelve teams in the running for a play-off position, and of which eight will qualify by their scores in tonight's game. Dr. Shaw of the department of Physics, Honorary President of the club will present two silver cups to the winning team in the play-off.

In addition, the Club will award two silver cups to the team having the highest average score for the year. It is expected, too, that the Invitation Tournament between the Professors and a picked team from the Bridge Club will be held in the near future. This is an annual event, but the arrangements for this have not yet taken shape. Further news about this event are expected to be given out at the next meeting.

It is strongly recommended by the executive that the teams be at the Reading Room by 7.45 p.m. so that any persons arriving singly may be paired off before 8 p.m. No teams will be eligible for entry after this time.

COMMERCE ELECTS SOCIETY OFFICERS

Elections Will Be Held in Arts Common Room Friday

Elections for the executive positions in the Commercial Undergraduate Society will be held Friday morning in the Arts Common Room. The post of Vice-president is already filled, John Reckitt having been elected by acclamation.

Contesting the position of President are Dudley Burrows, Arthur Madill, Bruce Russel, Peter Sandilands, and Dick Stevenson. In the field for that of Secretary are Earl Smith and Roger Williams, while Jean Carter and Henry Morgan are running for treasurer.

In compliance with the rules governing elections in the Society, all candidates for President are in their third year, and both candidates for Secretary are second year students. Jean Carter and Henry Morgan are in their freshman year in the faculty.

John Reckitt, the new vice-president is a second year student.

Reform Contest Also Scheduled for Tomorrow Evening

McGill debaters will meet a Sir George Williams team tomorrow night in the next of the series of intercollegiate debates. At the same time the Reform Challenge competition for impromptu speaking will take place. Both events are slated for 8 o'clock in the Union.

Jack Greenwood and Jack Lettich will represent McGill in the intercollegiate debate when they defend the negative side of the resolution, "that Canada finance the present war by taxation." On the affirmative side of the subject are Herman Buller, 2nd year Arts student, and Fred Kerner, third year Arts student of Sir George Williams College.

Reform Challenge Speakers.

The speakers in the annual Reform Challenge competition will be Alex Stalker, Allister Macdonald, Martin Hollinger and Lloyd Henderson. These are all members of the Debating Society, and have been chosen by the executive to take part upon consideration of their impromptu speaking ability, in accordance with the rules governing the competition.

The subject to be debated in the Reform contest will be drawn tomorrow morning by the candidates from the slips of paper indicating besides the topic, the side of the argument to be upheld. Walter Ward is to be the chairman for the event.

The committee of judges for both events has not been completely selected. It is announced, however, that Mr. D. H. S. Black, a lawyer and a representative of the Traveler's Insurance Company, will be present to act in this capacity, and that a business man and a professor from the university will complete the committee.

PRE-MED SOCIETY TO HEAR FLEMING

Subject of Tomorrow's Talk Will Be 'Health Insurance'

The Pre-Med Society will meet tomorrow at 5.15 in the Union Grill Room to hear Dr. Grant Fleming speak on "Health Insurance."

Dr. Fleming is Professor of Public Health in the Medical Faculty and chairman of the department. He also holds the post of Medical Director of the Bell Telephone Company, and is a member of the municipal and national health boards.

Dr. Fleming was educated at the University of Toronto, and received the M.C. in the last war. He served in the British Columbia Health Insurance Plan, as mediator. Formerly, Dr. Fleming was Dean of the Faculty of Medicine at McGill.

The Pre-Med Society once will be held on March 14, the executive stated. This meeting will furthermore be open for nominations for the executive offices of President, Vice-president, and Secretary-treasurer. All nominations are to be handed in writing.

Vol. XXX—No. 90

Student Responsibility

On Wednesday, March 12, the elections to the major campus posts for next year will be held. One might suppose, in view of the great importance of posts such as the Presidency of the Students' Society, the executives of the McGill Union and the Women's Union and the post of Representative to the Athletics Board, that every member of the student body would vote for the candidate of his choice.

This, however, is far from the case. Last year, for instance, only 72 per cent. of the students voted; the Faculty of Law was the only faculty that voted to a man, while Arts & Science and R.V.C. scarcely topped 50 per cent. Yet the vote last year was considered large.

These posts, in the nature of things, require a vote as representative as possible. The universities, which harboured the principles of democracy during the Middle Ages, should not let drop those principles—if merely through indolence or indifference. Each and every student should exercise his franchise, because the representation should be as democratic as possible.

The average student has no excuse for his indifference. The polling booths are numerous and conveniently located; information about the candidates is adequately presented by the Daily—and often, as well by the candidates themselves; the Students' Handbook explains the duties of those occupying the various positions.

Furthermore, the responsibility that rests on these executives is extremely great. In money matters alone, for instance—student organizations handle more than fifty thousand dollars annually—the responsibility is such as to forbid any indifference on the part of the student body as a whole. Similarly, in social, political, educational and military matters, the judgment of the students as expressed through their representatives is of paramount importance.

In the course of the next week, there will be considerable activity on the part of all candidates to the various positions. They and their minions will be out campaigning actively. This is an opportunity for all who do not know the candidates to make their acquaintance, and, if necessary, to discuss with them their platforms and the ramifications thereof.

Next week, as it were, determines the course of student representation for the coming year. Let no student shirk his responsibility.

War Medicine Courses

At the annual Spring Convocation this May there will graduate approximately 100 students of the Medical Faculty who, coming into a world of war, must be prepared to take their proper place in it. For these embryo doctors such a preparation must or should include courses in war medicine.

Treating men wounded in battle is different than treating people in civilian life; caring for the problems of public health is different under a total war economy than it is under a peacetime democratic economy; there are few comparisons that can be drawn between the mental effects on the human being of battle and ordinary life in time of peace; the problems of aviation medicine are different for men who will be flying Spitfires than it is for men who are flying Douglas transports for the commercial air-lines. And thus the list can be expanded.

At present a series of lectures touching lightly on the different phases of the medical aspect of war are being given once a week. But such lectures are not adequate for the purposes of the men who will be graduating in the next few years.

The Medical Faculty should for the duration give students in their last year of medicine special courses in war medicine. These courses should be given only to students of the fourth year for after a year of clinical work they are able to fully recognize the difference between peacetime medical practice and war time medical practice. Also students of the last year after having these courses will be better prepared to enter the medical corps of the armed units without too much preliminary training.

The Medical Faculty should consider making war medicine a part of the regular curriculum for the duration.

MUSIC NOTES

Naylor's Second Stand
Again on Sunday afternoon, Bernard Naylor will be at the podium of the Montreal Orchestra after a scintillating debut last week. While Dean Clarke is in Nassau, recuperating from a siege of influenza the willowy young conductor has chosen a program made up of several old favorites. The soloist of the afternoon is to be a young baritone, Bruce Boyce, who will sing two familiar operatic arias: Gai Tu from Verdi's "Masked Ball" and Vision Fugitive from "Herodiade" by Massenet. The orchestra will be heard in the Fingal's Cave overture of Mendelssohn; Arensky's Variations on a Theme by Tchaikovsky; and the D minor Symphony of Cesar Franck.

ODD VERSE

A Sonnet and a Sermon

"Perhaps I may turn out a song, perhaps a sermon," sang Burns. Professor MacLennan powerfully preached, however feebly I may sing. Here is the song and the pulse of the sermon.

We sought for life and for life's secrets—Where?
In man's achievements and man's schemes, and found
No satisfaction there; for rankling wound
No healing ease from pain, or wing of prayer
To lift our days into an ampler air.

Only in sunlight can true health abound,
Beauty be seen, or color spread around;
Our hope in man as All brought blank despair.

The human through the human we pursued
And lost it; all our best was turned to ill,
And Hell's black broth at all our feasts ensued;
Our blessings were made blights by wondrous skill.

Till war's red ruin smote us with its rod
As in our pride we pranced ignoring God.
—D. L. RITCHIE.

Canadian Campus
By HELEN ROBBINS
(C.U.P. Editor, Acadia Athenaeum)

Bravely withstanding the siege of measles which seems to be making inroads from coast to coast, we summon our recalcitrant sense of humor to appreciate the comment of the U.B.C. nurse to the effect that dances are conducive to measles. "We're waiting for the effects of the Junior Prom," she said resignedly and warned sagely "My advice is to stay away from dances."

'Tis reminiscent of the terse admonition to Acadia girls concerning the spread of infectious disease—something about "down there at the gym, dancing so close you couldn't put even a pin between them, etc., etc."

New Gym

The chief topic of conversation at U.N.B. is, of course, the new Lady Beaverbrook gymnasium, with its wonderfully adequate facilities for sports and military training.

The opening on Friday evening, February 21, was marked by a military ball and two exhibition basketball fixtures, one between the men of U.N.B. and Mt. Allison and the other, U.N.B. co-eds versus a sextet from Acadia.

Economic Drought

Comes the dry season when all of us dig down a little deeper and part a little more grudgingly with every sou. Interesting side-lights have been cast on the students' economic standing by a questionnaire circulated at Queens. This data is to be put in a usable form by special tabulating equipment at Ottawa and correlated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics with information from other campuses in the hope that it may lead to a better understanding of university problems throughout Canada.

The Women Again

"While Joe College is drilling in the armories and sitting in C.O.T.C. lectures, what is Josephine College doing?"
According to the McMaster Silhouette she is knitting blue helmets and khaki helmets, for knitting is fashionable nowadays. Though many of the Josephine Colleges may not have been very expert previously, the current popular song "Practice makes perfect" inspires them to become experts.

Not McMaster Josephines alone, but Josephines everywhere are clicking away and proud to tell the world, as they did in their recent co-ed issues, what they are accomplishing for Canada's War Effort.

War-time Thrift

Speaking of the War Effort, the campaign for war savings grows by leaps and bounds, with the University of Toronto's President, H. J. Cody, pictured touching a match to war savings stamps bought as part of the admission price to a Varsity dance.

The Queen's Journal in an editorial advances the admirable suggestion of a waiver of $5 training pay per man in the C.O.T.C. to purchase War Savings Certificates. These certificates might conceivably be turned over to the Queen's Building Fund, which would be increased by $5,000 when the certificates are honored by the government.

War Work

A C.U.P. jotting from Dalhousie informs us that Hugh MacLellan, of Sydney, N.S., a fourth-year science student, is the first Maritime student to be excused from classes to carry on special war work for the government.

Since all the Canadian universities offered their co-operation to the government, several science students in Upper Canadian universities have been released to give immediate aid to the war effort.

Collegiate Emily Posts

The attack on collegiate manners, or lack of them, seems to be widespread—articles appearing simultaneously in the Mt. A. Argosy and the Xaverian.

Mt. A. stresses the blatant rudeness of some collegians at concerts of classical music. Modestly it proclaims "We are not gutter-snipes" (horrible epithet!), advocates the wearing of the Sunday best, and coaches the gentle reader carefully on accepted concert behaviour for collegians.

The Xaverian quotes from an eminent educator "Refined and gentle manners are the expression of fixed habits of thought and action and the manners of a truly educated man or woman are the outward expression of his intellectual and moral convictions," and urges the application of this now, especially in mixed company.

Lemon for the Teacher

We are intrigued by the sentimentality of students at the University of Manitoba in presenting Dr. Smith, professor in Education, with a delectable, lemon-filled birthday cake. Could it be that their thoughtfulness was prompted by a premonition of his generous reciprocation? At any rate, he proceeded to dispense with the lecture and to distribute his present to the students.

The Harvest

With the coming of the first faint harbingers of spring, some of us begin to gather the fruits of our labors. Seventeen Literary X's were recently awarded to members of the Xaverian staff and to the Year Book staff, while seven of Queen's University's outstanding athletes will receive their Senior Q's on Friday.

The Film—In Review

AT THE PALACE
"COME LIVE WITH ME"

When a business arrangement involving the marriage of the parties concerned turns to thoughts of love, anything can happen, but in Come and Live with Me nothing did—excepting Hedy Lamarr. She played the part of an Austrian refugee who just had to marry in a hurry in order to avoid deportation.

James Stewart was a needy writer who married Hedy in order to receive enough support to continue writing. Unfortunately for him up to the time of their meeting all he had to show for his effort was a collection of rejection slips. Personal experience, however, as a result of his relationship with marriage gave him something more tangible upon which to base his works; and success was the result.

Hedy was Hedy and the rest was so-so, but the gem of the film was hidden in a scene that was all too short. Donald Meek was a perfect tramp of the likeable sort, at least he made himself likeable and made himself missed when the scene closed.

The picture as a whole is not objectionable. —Q. Q.

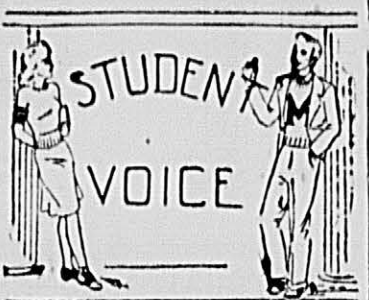

AT LOEW'S.

THE PHILADELPHIA STORY.

"The Philadelphia Story," well along into its third week at Loew's Theatre, deals, rather more deftly than usual, with the familiar theme of the married heiress and her various love affairs. Said love affairs include John Howard, her fiance, the enterprising up-from-the-ranks type, James Stewart, recently Academy Awarded for acting himself with such brilliant understanding in this piece, and Cary Grant, the one who really understands her. It seems unnecessary to say that Katharine Hepburn is the heiress hungering after understanding.

Phillip Barry's play which was the sympathetic vehicle in which Miss Hepburn vindicated herself in the eyes of New York critics has been expertly adapted for the screen by Donald Ogden Stewart. Much of the original dialogue has been retained and that which has been, of necessity, deleted is hinted at with delicious coyness. The important thing, however, is that the bright, brittle essence of the play has been retained and transmitted with considerable success to the screen.

The acting is uniformly good, even the supporting players play with a subtle understanding that is encountered too seldom. Miss Hepburn's Tracy Lord occasionally threatens to become straight Miss Hepburn but this may be laid to the fact that she has not yet quite succeeded in finding the right range in (Continued on Page Four).

Dear Sir:

I should like, through the medium of this column, to thank all those who nominated me for the position of Secretary of the Women's Union; and to assure them that, conscious of the honour paid me, I shall do my utmost to fill this responsible position.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Sir:

My thanks to Mr. Pye (Arts II) for his kind remarks about me which appeared in your issue of Friday last. His criticism of my capsule evaluation of Crazy with the Heat is well-taken, but is not placed in the proper perspective. It is quite true that the producers drafted Diosia Costello, Ray and Naldi and a quite obscure South American tenor to liven their show.

But these additions did not change the show; they can never change a musical revue. A musical revue stands or falls by ensemble numbers and comedy skits; specialty numbers are nice but secondary. And the ensemble numbers have changed not at all. As for the staid Mr. Atkinson reporting that the Gear-Howard skits were changed, I am afraid it is Mr. A. who is talking through his headpiece this time. Two lines never changed a skit to my knowledge. Furthermore, when Willie Howard appears in a skit and that skit is not a howling success, that is not Willie Howard's fault. He is consistently one of the most competent and most brilliant comedians on the Broadway stage today.

Years Ago Today

Many McGill men are mentioned in dispatches for gallantry in action overseas.

1926.
Students in large numbers availed themselves of the university health services recently instituted.

1936.
Intercollegiate season ended with McGill leading Canadian Colleges with seven titles.

Rather it is the skit which is at fault. To use a very prevalent vulgarism, the skit stinks.

In conclusion, I should like to warm Mr. Pye (Arts II) to put not his faith in critics—well, not too much faith anyway. One critic's opinion is still one man's opinion, and quoting Mantle, Atkinson or Coleman doesn't really prove anything. As a matter of fact, the eight metropolitan dailies were divided on Crazy with the Heat, three for, four against, and one away on vacation.

And a few closing remarks. Wide-eyed in Gotham is not a new report. New Yorker or no, it is free to be as satiric as it pleases within the limits of its ability. Also, I do not wear a hat, and have not for at least seven years. Of course, I may be talking through my hair.

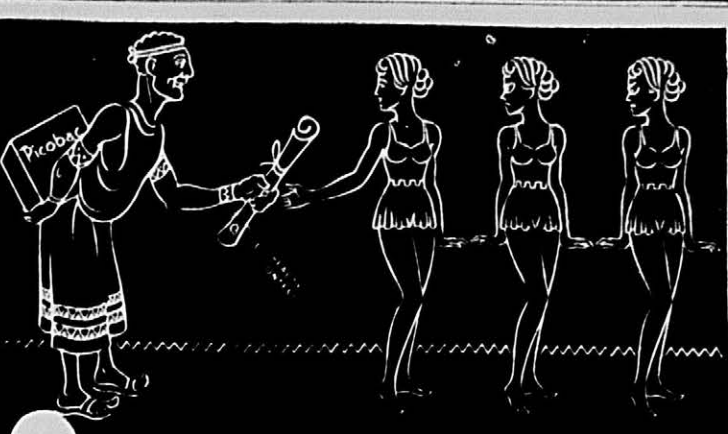

REUVEN FRANK.

Dartmouth Takes Honours — B Coy. in Finals

Red Ring Coach Joins R.C.A.F.

McGill will miss the cheery voice and light step of Bert Light, who soon will take his last look at the Pine Avenue Gymnasium, and leave to serve his country in a more important capacity. Bert too has felt the call of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and it has been learned authoritatively, will soon be helping to keep in good physical trim the lads in blue who have so valiantly shown the world how to reverse the Hitler aerial Blitzkrieg.

Boxing coach for over a decade, Bert's loss will be keenly felt. McGill ringmen will remember how Bert's driving personality drove them on to many a victory, while his ready hand and wary eye were always present to encourage and aid them.

Members of the M.R.T.B. will have cause to remember the many P.T. periods they took under Bert Light's supervision. According to Bert, P.T. was P.T., and he took pains to make sure his charges appreciated that point. At any rate, no one was ever known to feel chilly due to lack of exercise. The staccato "On guard for boxing... jab with the elbow... and kick him in the teeth," rank out often enough to make students adequately familiar.

McGill Skiers Again Fail To Break Southern Jinx

Meservey Stars for Dartmouth, Taking Downhill and Slalom — Doug Mann Leads McGill

The Dartmouth jinx still dogged the McGill skiers last week-end when a superior squad from the south beat them on their home trails. Bob Meservey was top man for the visitors, having a considerable margin over Doug Mann, who placed first for the Reds, and was in second place in the combined standing. Meservey led in both downhill and slalom, giving one of the finest performances ever witnessed in Laurentian skiing. Townsend placed second in the slalom, while Hanoverians copped the next two places. Salm of Dartmouth had second best time in the combined downhill, and was closely followed by Mann.

by pope

We note an item of news from the United States. The Soaring Society of California has begun the publication of a house organ called the "Thermal." In this respect, if in no other, we may therefore boast the right to say: "We lead—others follow!" We wonder if there is a subsidiary of A.S.C.A.P. which has to do with names and titles.

The first appearance of "Thermals" was as a column headed "Thermal" in the October 11th issue of the McGill Daily in 1939. We dare venture this was the first appearance on the Sports Page of any American college daily of a column on gliding and soaring. Whether anybody reads the changed thing or not no one can say that the McGill Daily is not progressive.

Speaking of progress, about three years ago the McGill Glider Club received a request from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, for information on the formation and organization of a glider club. This information was sent along with a few words of advice. Further communications were later received from the new body and its story has been one of considerable success in the face of serious difficulties.

No one in the Yarmouth Glider Club had any experience in flying and the whole thing started from scratch. Plans for a Dagling Primary trainer as is used by the McGill Club were ordered and most of the Winter of 1939-40 was spent by the engineers of the McGill Club in revising, perfecting, and re-drawing Slingby's plans for this machine. On their completion a full set of blueprints was sent to Yarmouth.

Meanwhile the Yarmouth group had been scouting about for a second-hand machine and last year obtained one from a club in Alberta. This was a utility type similar to those in use in the United States. It was put into operation last summer and flown with encouraging results.

At different times last year two of their members visited Montreal and brought stories of their progress. With the steady absorption of their members into the Air Force and war industries and the difficulties of obtaining permission to fly because of restrictions imposed on civil aviation in the Maritimes they had much trouble but they persevered. Having overcome these handicaps, they still had misfortunes through discovering that aircraft will not stand the shock of landing on any part other than the landing gear. Several wing tips were knocked off in impromptu investigations of this limiting factor.

Later we had the privilege of a chat with one of the pillars of their club. From this a good many things came to light. The utility appears to be a trifle fragile and the lack of experienced instructors has led

Puckchasers Win Over C Coy. in Playoff Shutout

Fyfe Stars in Victor's Nets — Kennedy and Farmer Give Scoring Punch in 3-0 Win

The undefeated, untied B Company puckchasing machine rolled on to yet another victory in the Inter-company Hockey circuit, as the chase for final honours got under way on Friday at the Forum. The Pounding Plumbers rode roughshod over a game C Company team, and walked off with a 3-0 victory in a sudden death play-off match. The league leading B's, paced in victory by Kennedy and Farmer, who was voted the outstanding player in the Junior Q.A.H.A., will meet the E Company squad in a two game total goal series starting today. Outstanding for the Busy B's was Fyfe, the custodian of the cage, who chalked up his fourth shut-out in six games.

KENNEDY OPENS SCORING.

With a little more than a minute ticked off in the first period, Kennedy scooped up the puck from Bud Farmer, and before Morris, C Company's cage guardian, could bat an eyelash, had dented the twine for the first of his team's counters. Play continued in a fast and furious manner for the rest of the period, but the C's were unable to tie up the game.

After three odd minutes had passed in the second frame, Kennedy just about sewed up the game and ran C Company out of the play-offs, when he nabbed a pass from Captain Bruce Crutchfield, and slammed the rubber into the cage. The underdogs put on a spurt in an endeavour to knot up the score, but Ronnie Fyfe turned aside all the C Company forays.

MACDONALD SCORES CLINCHER.

Bud Farmer set up the play for the final score of the game after the third period had got under way, when he laid down a perfect pass to Bill MacDonald, who proceeded to deposit the rubber where it would do the most good for B Company, i.e., in the C Company nets.

Ward and Morrison, on the C Company defence, did yeoman work, and helped considerably to cut down B Company scoring rushes. For the winners, Fyfe was starry in the nets, while Kennedy and Farmer provided most of the scoring punch.

Today, B Company will meet E Company in the first of a two game total goal series to decide the hockey championship of the M.R.T.B. In their last encounter, B Company was victorious, but now, with final honours at stake, E Company will shoot the works, and with the B's in a winning frame of mind these days, the sparks are bound to fly at the Forum this noon.

bridging the intangible gap between stage and screen dramatic technique. This was particularly noticeable in the garden scene, when through a somewhat inconsistent champagne haze, she and the hard-boiled newspaperman start plumb the depths of philosophy and the caste system.
Cary Grant is completely charming as her discarded husband and James Stewart is likeable as the reporter with a grievance and a desire to be an author. (Some day the movies are going to produce a reporter who just wants to be a reporter.) John Howard as the life-is-real-life-is-earnest fiance contributes a thoroughly good performance. He is wholly credible and is a fine rock of realism when the other members of the cast are far gone in wine and whimsy. Virginia Weidler, the worldly wise seven-year-old, and Ruth Hussey, the reporter's side-kick are both outstanding in supporting roles.
"The Philadelphia Story" is a smoothly constructed picture, written, directed, and played with extraordinary understanding of the material at hand. The material is of the lightest texture and the producers have had the admirable judgment to treat it as such. The result is one of the most entertaining films of the year.—M.S.W.

has been procured from all corners of R.V.C. and yards of black mourning which was used to drape the college when Queen Victoria died will be used for blind-covers. One of the most important things about an effective blackout is the way that the blinds fit close to the edge of the window. Windows with narrow blinds should have cardboard tacked up the sides of the window frame. In the bedrooms the blinds must be pulled down and the curtains pulled across, and a blanket or rug pinned over the entire window.
Preparedness NOW will mean less confusion at the end of April when it is quite possible that Nazi planes will make reconnaissance flights over Montreal. . . . We may not be well-prepared for exams, but we MUST be well-prepared for war," stated a member of the committee.

to chances being taken unknowingly in some stages of instruction, while in other respects instructors were over-careful—if such a thing is possible.
We have not heard from them directly since, but a second-hand report would indicate that they are becoming discouraged with the necessity of frequent repairs. They have often voiced their intentions of building a Dagling. If this plan were put into effect, it would help solve their repair problem, for the Dagling is a very sturdy little aircraft.
The latest communication received from them is in the form of a roll of motion picture film taken of their activities during the past summer. We had been informed before that this was being sent for comments on their methods and technique. The film has not been projected yet, but will be shortly. The showing may bring forth things which, in Air Force parlance, are "weird and wonderful."

VOLLEYBALL
Tonight at 6.00 p.m. Platoon No. 26 of "F" Company is scheduled to play MacDonald College No. 1 for the Interplatoon Championship of the M.R.T.B. On the McGill line-up are Mungen, West, Selon, Brewer, Zukerman and Davis. Playing for MacDonald are Villanova, McVie, Dinsdale, Shuh, Bryson, Craig and Sevigny.
Both of these teams came up through two series of preliminaries which involved some 35 different teams, then fought their way through an elimination series and into the playoffs and now to the finals themselves.
Up to the first of the final neither team had suffered a single defeat and needless to say both of them will be out hammer and tong to take the coveted Inter-Platoon Titles.
The first half of the final series was played here last week when MacDonald took the lead by winning two of the three games that were played piling up an advantage of 13 points in her favor. MacDonald took two games to the tune of 16-14 and 15-2, and McGill took one game with the score at 15-13.
Tonight Platoon No. 26 journeys to St. Anne's leaving here at 5.00 p.m. and arriving in the enemy camp about 6.00 p.m. at which time they will engage one of their most serious opponents in a life-and-death battle. The "F" Company representatives must not only win at least two of the three scheduled games but must wipe out a margin of 13 points and we can be sure that the if it can be done Platoon 26 will do it.

LEARN TO SWIM CAMPAIGN
The last learn to swim class of the year has just been organized and will commence this Friday at the K. of C. Pool at 5.30 p.m. There will be two periods per week and the course will be conducted for about four or five weeks only. The two days will be Tuesdays and Fridays and the time will be 5.30 p.m.
Students who signed the list in the locker room are asked to report to the first class and to make it a point to attend regularly. If you can't swim and desire to learn now then just show up ready for action this Friday or next Tuesday. The classes are open to all students regardless of whether they have signed up or not.
Remember, this is your last chance. Don't put it off again. Be in the 'swim' this summer. It really isn't very difficult. In five or six lessons under an expert instructor you will find yourself able to swim across the pool, and with a few practice periods thrown in, your days as a 'beach-flower' will be a thing of the past.
The services of Larry Leroux have been secured for this important job. He is an expert swimmer and instructor and you will enjoy the rapid progress you are sure to make under his direction.

Mart Kenny and his Western Gentlemen, who broadcast twice weekly on the Sweet and Low program, have been engaged for the occasion, and they will be assisted by vocalist Judy Richards. Contrary to the usual time of commencement, dancing will begin at 9.30 o'clock sharp, instead of the usual ten o'clock.
Tom Harvie, who is in charge of decorations for the ball has not yet decided finally just what trend the decorations will follow but it has been promised that they will be novel and of a decidedly different type from those of the Prom and other college dances. However, the tables will be arranged in cabaret style and the number of each will be limited to six couples. The architects, owing to heavy regular
